1 Jill doesn't just talk about community. For 20 years, she's built it. Jill is a tireless advocate for families and students in our schools. She has led three PTOs, helped parents citywide, served on school district committees, and sat on many nonprofit boards including Temple Emanu-el and the JCC.

2 Jill brings national expertise on education, and she's the only candidate whose kids attended our public schools. Jill knows public schools are engines of opportunity, not just for other people's kids, but for her own. She fought hard to build parent engagement and keep Nathan Bishop open. Professionally, Jill spent years supporting excellent schools across the country. As our city resumes local control, Jill will fight to make our public schools excellent for every child.

4 Jill doesn't just worry about climate, she builds local resilience every day. In her work at the Woonasquatucket River Watershed Council, Jill fights for clean water, green spaces, and climate resilience in our neighborhoods. Jill has worked with city agencies to address sustainability. It's not a campaign promise, it's her job.

3 Jill believes you should know where your tax dollars go. Jill will advocate for fiscal transparency and financial stability as we face an underfunded pension system, aging infrastructure, and the rising cost of living. A skilled communicator, Jill wrote a column for East Side Monthly for six years, and she'll keep residents informed.

5 Jill knows the difference between building bridges and burning them. Providence's biggest problems cut across our 15 wards. Jill's collaborative leadership runs from the East Side to Olneyville because she knows we win together or we lose separately. No single leader can fix things, but if we come together, we can get things done.

JILL DAVIDSON HAS FOUGHT FOR OUR COMMUNITY FOR 20 YEARS

JILL WILL ALWAYS:

- Promote a healthy fiscal future
- Support strong public schools
- Defend our rights
- Prioritize aging sidewalks, sewers, roads
- Address flooding and climate resilience
- Balance new building and preservation
- Fight for safe, walkable streets and RIPTA

Jill DAVIDSON

Democrat for Ward 2 • Providence City Council

I'm running for the Providence City Council because I love our community.

I've spent two decades building coalitions of neighbors to support our public schools, advance climate resilience, and push for responsive government. I'm ready to bring my experience and energy to City Hall. Our city, our nation, and our democracy face considerable challenges. But I believe in our community, and I know what is possible when we work together. I welcome your questions, your engagement in our campaign, and I want to earn your vote in the primary on Tuesday, November 4th.
